And to one Private Bill.

After which His Majesty was pleased to make the following most Gracious Speech:

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

I CANNOT close this Session without assuring you, That I have observed, with much Satisfaction, the Zeal, Assiduity, and Perseverance, with which you have applied yourselves to the very important Business which, at the Meeting of Parliament, I recommended to your particular Attention: And I hope, and trust, That the Laws, which have been the Result of your Deliberations, will be found to answer the salutary Purposes for which they were intended.

The Continuance of the War between Russia and the Porte, with both of whom I am closely connected in Friendship, although under no Engagement to either, gives Me great Concern. But, from the pacifick Dispositions of other Powers, I have Reason to hope, That those Troubles will extend no further. I shall persevere in My earnest Endeavours to preserve the general Tranquillity of Europe; at the same Time, it shall be the constant Object of My Care, to be sufficiently prepared against any Event which may affect the Honour, Safety, or Interest, of My Kingdoms.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

I return you My hearty Thanks, for the Supplies which you have granted Me with so much Cheerfulness: And I see with Pleasure, that, notwithstanding the ample Provision which you have made for every Branch of the Publick Service, and the effectual Relief and Support which you have afforded to the East India Company, you have been able to make some Progress in reducing the National Debt.

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

The Experience I have had of your Attention to the Publick Good, and of your Attachment to Me, convinces Me, That you will, in your several Stations, use your utmost Endeavours to assist Me, in promoting the Happiness of My People. I have no other Object but their Welfare; and no other View, but to employ the Powers with which I am intrusted in maintaining the Credit, Reputation, and Prosperity, of My Kingdoms.

Then the Lord Chancellor, by His Majesty's Command, said;

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

IT is His Majesty's Royal Will and Pleasure, That this Parliament be prorogued to Tuesday the Seventh Day of September next, to be then here held; and this Parliament is accordingly prorogued to Tuesday the Seventh Day of September next.

Gotha, June 12. On the 28th of last Month died at Roda, in the 47th Year of her Age, her Serene Highness the Princess Louisa, Dutchess Dowager of Saxe-Gotha, Widow of the late Prince John Augustus, Duke of Saxe-Gotha.

Munich, June 26. All Kind of Grain is very promising in this and the neighbouring Countries; and though some particular Districts have suffered by Hail, yet upon the whole there has not been for many Years so great a Prospect of Plenty.

Hamburgh, June 22. All the Accounts received here from Mecklenbourg, Holstein, and the neighbouring Countries, agree in confirming, that there never was a greater Appearance of a plentiful Harvest, than now, of all Kinds of Grain and Forage.
